Sakhalin 2 LNG running above capacity and eyeing expansion

Sakhalin 2, Russia's sole LNG export facility, has raised its production rate to 11% above its original design capacity and is "actively engaging" with buyers as part of its marketing for its planned third train, project operator Shakhlin Energy said this week.

Ole Myklestad, production director at Shakhlin Energy, told the Sakhalin oil and gas conference on the far eastern Russian island that removing operational bottlenecks had helped boost production.
