FEATURE: Mozambique – Horn of plenty or LNG chimera?

The positive final investment decision (FID) on the Coral South floating LNG (FLNG) project at the start of June has paved the way for Mozambique to finally become an LNG exporter in the early 2020s. However, it is a long-delayed and modest start, considering the huge gas discoveries, amounting to almost 200 Tcf, made in the offshore Rovuma Basin between 2010 and 2013.
