Contents

China chops city-gate gas prices to spur gas use
Publication date: 01 September 2017
China chops city-gate gas prices to spur gas use

China this week took another step towards market-based natural gas pricing with a cut in benchmark city-gate prices that should lead to cheaper gas for non-residential consumers, and subsequently boost gas demand.

China's National Development and Reform Commission (NDRC) announced it would lower benchmark city gas prices for non-residential users by...