Irian Jaya – The New Bontang?

It is looking increasingly likely that the major discoveries on Arco-operated Wiriagar and neighbouring PSCs in the "bird's head" area of Irian Jaya, one of eastern Indonesia's frontier exploration areas, will feed a major LNG and fertiliser plant complex, coming on stream early in the next century. What's more, if such a project is announced soon, there will be no doubt about either its economic viability or its proximity to market.
