India plans to launch shale gas exploration licence auction in Q3 2011

India plans its second foray into unconventional gas exploration, after its successful coal-bed methane (CBM) auction launched in visual_editor009. The Directorate General of Hydrocarbons (DGH) and the oil ministry are working on a domestic shale gas policy that should be in place by the end of the current financial year – and New Delhi plans to launch its first auction of shale gas blocks in August visual_editor011.
