EU pushes for gas to be linked to supply and demand fundamentals, not oil

Gas should be priced according to supply and demand fundamentals and not to oil prices, Michael Köhler head of cabinet for EU energy commissioner Günther Oettinger said. "We do not need oil indexation in a liquid market with competing gas sources. As long as you have a gas price that is not related to supply and demand for gas, gas is pricing itself out of the market," he told Gas Matters Today.
