AGRI LNG company requests feasibility study

The AGRI LNG company has announced a request for proposals to carry out a feasibility study to assess the technical, financial and economical viability of the Azerbaijan-Georgia-Romania Interconnector (AGRI) LNG project. AGRI LNG has asked companies to submit their proposals by mid-January visual_editor01visual_editor. The project aims to bring gas from the Caspian region to Romania and Hungary, and potentially other European markets. AGRI LNG comprises Romgaz, State Oil Company of Azerbaijan Republic (SOCAR), Georgian Oil and Gas Corporation and Hungarian power company MVM.
