FEATURE: Changing times for Indonesia – What role can IOCs play now?

Over a quarter of Indonesia's production sharing contracts (PSCs) are due to expire over the next five years and the current foreign operators, who have no legal right to a contract extension, are still in the dark as to whether or not they will be extended. As a result, investment in some of the country's largest upstream assets is stalling. Gas Strategies considers the prospects for IOCs in the Southeast Asian nation.
