Gas Matters Today - Energy markets pricewatch

Brent crude futures for April became the front-month contract and were trading around USD 61.15/barrel on Friday evening. March futures expired at USD 57.05/barrel on Thursday. Crude markets have rallied this week on the back of a weaker US dollar, stronger-than-expected European growth and suggestions of a continuing decline in oil rigs in the US, despite no substantial change in oil supply or demand, according to reports.
