Eni eyeing FID on Coral FLNG before 2017

Eni has approved an investment plan for the first developmental phase of the Coral field in offshore Mozambique and expects to reach a final investment decision (FID) on a related 3.3 mtpa floating liquefaction (FLNG) project by year-end.

The Coral South project involves the construction of six subsea production wells connected to the proposed Coral FLNG unit. Nine months ago, the development was approved by the Mozambican government.
