Anadarko sells off USD 1 billion in east Texas assets

Anadarko Petroleum Corporation has concluded a USD 1 billion deal to sell its Carthage upstream and midstream assets in east Texas to Connecticut-based Castleton Commodities International (CCI).

The acquisition will give CCI over 160,000 acres of leasehold property in the Haynesville basin, the third-most prolific shale gas region in the US and one known for being highly pressurised, leading to strong initial output that quickly drops in the second year of production.
