Lloyds Energy applies for US LNG export licence to FTA countries

Lloyds Energy Group has requested permission to export from its proposed Point Comfort LNG floating liquefaction project off the coast of Texas to countries that hold a freetrade agreement (FTA) with the US.

Established in 2013, the company hopes to export from the US Gulf of Mexico. Lloyds is looking to launch a LNG-based project comprising two 4.5 mtpa floating LNG (FLNG) vessels, with additional onshore facilities.
