Cove Point LNG enters commissioning phase, poised to fire up in Q4

Dominion Energy has begun commissioning Cove Point LNG, the second liquefaction project in the Lower 48 US states and first such facility on the country's east coast.

Engineering and procurement are “essentially complete” and the two-train facility on the Chesapeake Bay in Lusby, Maryland, will fire up in Q4, developer Dominion Energy said this week.

“The Cove Point liquefaction project is 95% complete ...
