The ABS interview: Tor-Ivar Guttulsrod, director, FSRU and FLNG

Established 150 years ago, the American Bureau of Shipping (ABS) provides classification services to the marine and offshore energy industry, helping companies to deal with technical, operational and regulatory issues relating to new projects, assets and designs.

LNG Business Review discusses with ABS' head of FSRU and FLNG, Tor-Ivar Guttulsrod, the challenges and opportunities of deploying floating facilities amid growing demand for small-scale, flexible assets, and as the development of LNG as bunker fuel progresses.
