Eni sees its output peaking in 2025 as it sets 80% net GHG reduction goal for 2050

Italy's Eni expects its own oil and gas production to plateau in 2025 as the company makes progress towards a new 80% reduction in its net greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions by 2050 – by which time natural gas will make up 85% of the firm's total production. Unveiling its long-term strategic plan today, Eni also announced a major ...
