Crude prices slide on Thursday amid concerns over rising Covid-19 cases globally, which are expected to hit oil demand. The front-month WTI price settled in the USD 38/barrel range for the first time since 15 September, with the price dipping as low as USD 37.61/barrel during trading. November dated Brent closed marginally lower, settling at USD 40.93/barrel.

European gas prices also fell, with the UK NBP and Dutch TTF front-month prices settling 0.9% and 0.6% lower respectively. On the other side of the pond, US gas benchmark Henry Hub remained unchanged. CME's November-dated JKM futures contract recorded a marginal loss, to settle at USD 5.04/MMBtu.

The European carbon price also recorded a loss, as month-ahead ETS allowance (EUA) futures fell 1.6% to close at EUR 26.49/tonne.
